Strategy

The objective of this sub-fund of the MFM FUND is to replicate as closely as possible the rising phases of the benchmark index while reducing risk during periods of decline. To achieve this, behavioural finance parameters are used to optimise both the timing of specific and sector-related decisions and the strategic allocations.

Fund manager comment

The excess accumulated over the last quarter has manifested itself with an accelerated increase in price for the main indexes, but especially the US ones. Taking into account this disconnection with the basic reality, which being positive was nevertheless not supportive enough to justify any increase in the risk at this very moment. This explains the underperformance of the fund during the first month of 2018. The funds finished the period with a return that turned slightly negative during the very last days of January at -0.06% against + 3.01 for the benchmark. We have been very careful at maintaining a defensive profile during what appears in the light of February as an unsustainable excess of confidence. The developments that we have now are clearly positive for the medium term but require a very careful and selective approach. Moreover, we continue to emphasise the absolute necessity to participate only with very tight protection in place.
